Numb. 3835.

The Daily Courant.

Monday, February 8. 1714.

London, February 8.

On Saturday arrived the Mail due from Holland.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Feb. 13.
Madrid, January 22.

THE Night between the 14th and 15th, the Queen was seized with such an Oppression at the Stomach, that 'twas feared she was going to die; but she was relieved by a great Vomitting: that came of it self, yet it weakened her extremely, and almost took away her Speech. The 15th in the Morning, the French Physicians held a Consultation with the Spanish and Italian Doctors, and they all agreed to give her Majesty a Medicine; at the same time Order was given for a Priest to be ready to administer the extreme Unction if there should be Occasion; and her Majesty made her Will; but in the Afternoon she began to mend, and since the 16th all the Physicians of the Consultation have been admitted every Day to see her Majesty. The 19th she received the Communion from the Hands of Father Rubio her Confessor. A famous Physician of Saragossa is sent for to Court, who formerly cured her Majesty of the great Indisposition she had at Vittoria; and M. Helvetius a Dutch Physician is sent for from Paris. 'Tis said her Majesty is become extraordinary lean, and that she takes no other Nourishment than Woman's Milk. The King appears very much concerned at the Queen's Illness, and has therefore been advised to divert his Thoughts by going a Hunting every Day, or using some other Exercise.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Feb. 13.
Genoa, Jan. 22. The Earl of Peterborough continues here still, nor is it known when he will embark for Sicily. The Marquis de los Balbases, late Viceroy of Sicily, is expected here in an English Man of War, for which we have been in great Apprehension, because 'tis 22 Days since she sailed from Palermo, and there has been very tempestuous Weather in the Seas of Tuscany: But we learn that that Ship has been seen near the Island of Corfica, where a Bark which had on board some Horses and Baggage belonging to that Marquis ran aground. Just now we see 3 Ships standing in, and suppose the said Man of War is one of them. Several Hundred Families of Peasants are embarked here, to go to inhabit and cultivate the Island of Corfica, which at present is but thinly peopled.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Feb. 13.
Aulbourg, Feb. 5. The 2d Instant a Letter was read in the Diet, written the 29th of January by Prince Eugene, importing, that some had reckoned too much upon Peace, and had therefore slackened their Preparations of War; when the Treaty is yet very dubious, the last Letters from the French Court, by which the King's Approbation of what had been already settled was expected, having brought new Alterations. Yesterday came another Letter from Prince Eugene dated the 2d Instant, advising, that an Exprels was arrived from France, which had brought the Marshal de Villars a thorough Alteration of what had been transacted, so that the said Marshal had demanded anew all that was rejected in the first Conference: Whereupon his Highness had resolved to go from Rastadt in two or three Days, and to leave behind him a Writing, exposing to the Publick this Conduct of the French, and shewing that France is the only Cause of the further Miseries of the War. His Highness proposed to pass a Day or two with the Duke of Wirtemberg, and then to come hither.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Feb. 13.
Frankfort, Feb. 7. 'Tis confirmed from Rastadt and other Places, that the Conferences for Peace are broken off, and that Prince Eugene of Savoy is gone. They add, that the Marshal de Villars had made now Propositions at last, which had caused the Rupture of the Negotiations; among others, that the Court of France will make Peace with the Emperour only, not with the Empire; that the Electors of Bavaria and Cologne, and also Prince Ragotski, should be restored, and that 30 Millions should be given to the first towards making good his Losses. It appears by other Letters, that both Sides give out they neither of them gave Occasion for breaking off the Conferences; and 'tis talked that each Party will publish a Manifesto. Prince Eugene of Savoy will give some Orders in military Affairs on the Rhine, and then go to Vienna by the Way of Aysbourg.

Dusseldorp, Feb. 9. The Letters which are come in to Day from Rastadt, confirm the Rupture of the Conferences and the Departure of the two Generals. Some Letters intimate, that during the Conferences, the French used great Endeavours to engage the Emperour in a separate Treaty, exclusive of the Empire, but he absolutely refused.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Feb. 13.
Frankfort, Feb. 7. We have at length received Advice that the Conferences at Rastadt are absolutely broken off; and that Prince Eugene is set out from thence for Estingen; the Marshal de Villars accompanying him to his Post-Chaise, and there taking Leave of him, wishing him a good Journey; after which the Marshal set out likewise for Strasbourg. The Imperial Commissaries have bought great Stores of Provisions for filling the Magazines of Philipsbourg, where Men are employed in repairing and augmenting the Fortifications. The French do the like at Landau, and cause a large Quantity of Hay to be twisted, in order to execute, as they give out, some great Design before Winter be over.
